Sea glass that was collected
on the California beach.

THE BEAUTY OF SEA GLASS

In some aspects, sea glass is very similar to diamonds. Diamonds are lumps of coal that undergo immense pressure and heat deep underground. Sea glass are pieces of broken bottles that have found their way into the ocean. After years of constant tumbling in the surf and coarse sand, the sharp edges are removed and the glass becomes smooth. Sea glass can then be found washed up on the shores of the beach.

collect sea glass.

While searching for sea glass, I couldn't help but think how people might relate to sea glass. When I found a piece, it was like finding a gem lost in the sand and rocks. It made me think of the parable Jesus spoke concerning the lost sheep in Luke 15. This teaching states that Jesus is willing to leave His ninety-nine sheep in the wilderness to go after one wayward sheep. The glass has been lost in the ocean for possibly decades. If you have been lost and caught in this world's turbulence, you have a choice to come out of the chaos and enter into the peace Jesus has for you (John 14:27).

Initially, broken glass is sharp and even dangerous. However, broken glass in the ocean smooths out and becomes a collector's treasure. We, as people are rough without the Holy Spirit constantly washing over us. Let the Heavenly Father, Jesus Christ, and Holy Spirit smooth you out, so you can become the precious treasure you were created to be.
