Coming Out of Captivity

By Nathan D. Pietsch

During trying and stretching times, it is easy to grow fearful, discouraged, or enraged. During the month of June, I found myself cycling through a wave of emotions. As a result, I could feel tensions rise inside. I was thankful the Lord spoke to my heart and recalibrated me. I heard the words in my mind, "You are more focused on what the enemy is doing, than what I am doing."

The Heavenly Father, Jesus, and Holy Spirit directed me to Psalm 126. This section of Scripture speaks about coming out of captivity. The enemy can hold a person in bondage to almost anything. Perhaps you know somebody who struggles with excessive alcohol consumption or depression. These are two examples of captivity the Lord is desiring to break people free of.

The ministry house Dawn and I live at, has opened the doors to a small group so we can start having church meetings again. The others watch online. We filmed the service pertaining to the topic of, "Coming Out of Captivity." It was a powerful service that helps people receive freedom and refocus on God. If you would like to watch the video on Youtube, you can search for, "Prophesying Forth A Deliverance Outpouring :: Nathan Pietsch :: Kimarie Lamb."

We also want to say, "Thank you" to every person who makes it possible for us to stay in full-time ministry.
